I felt when I walked in there that he was getting the very best care that he could get anywhere, so I never had a doubt in my mind that he should be anywhere else.

About Us

Parkview Medical Center offers acute healthcare and behavioral health specialty services. Our community-focused mission is a reflection of the past and a guide to the future of the organization. One of the key roles of Parkview Health System and Medical Center Trustees is to oversee the sensitive balancing of the medical center’s charitable purpose, with the ongoing growth and viability of the facility. Parkview’s track record over the years has been one of diligent responsibility to the community. Each year a significant amount of free care and discounts are provided by the hospital to those with limited or no ability to pay. Parkview continues to operate a safe, cost-effective entity with the highest ethical practices.

Parkview Medical Center provides a full range of healthcare services, including the only verified and certified Level II Trauma Center in southern Colorado and the region’s first certified Stroke Center. We are extremely proud of the recognitions we have received over the past year, including: being recognized as a Best Hospital in Colorado by U.S. News and World Report for the fourth consecutive year; earning Avatar Solutions’ “Exemplary Service – Best Overall Performer” award; and being named one of America’s 100 Best Hospitals for Patient Care by Women’s Choice Award.

Parkview Health System, Inc. provided more than $16,893,762 in community benefits during fiscal year 2013/2014.

Our Mission Continues

On behalf of the Board of Directors, Parkview is proud to provide our annual community benefit report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2014.

The mission of Parkview is to “provide quality healthcare services and education to improve the health of the people we serve.” Focused on our mission, Parkview completed another successful year and this report provides information that makes evident the hospital’s success in supporting this great mission.

Since it all began in 1923, Parkview Medical Center has provided hundreds of millions of dollars in charity care to our community and Parkview continued this critical role the past fiscal year providing over $70 million in charity care and self-pay care. In fiscal 2014, there were small signs of improvement within the local economy, but regrettably there remain clear indications this slow recovery will continue through fiscal 2015.

Working through the region’s economic challenges, as well as, the changes that accompany the implementation of the next phases of the Affordable Care Act, fiscal 2014 was another positive year for Parkview. Along with our board, I need to thank the more than 2,500 outstanding employees of Parkview for making this past year a success. There is a special section in this report, listing all employees with over 25 years experience at Parkview. Please take a minute to review this list, as I am certain you will see some names you recognize. I think you will agree the word “outstanding” is appropriate in describing these individuals.

Today, Parkview remains one of only a few large community hospitals operating independently in Colorado. Parkview’s success can be directly attributed to an outstanding local governing board that makes decisions based on what is best for our great community and region. These board members are committed to Parkview, but these individuals are Pueblo citizens first and then Parkview board members, easily prioritizing key decisions based on our community and region.

Also pictured on this page is Parkview’s free-standing emergency center in Pueblo West. This facility, along with the emergency center at Parkview, delivers care to over 80,000 people. Parkview remains the region’s only Level II trauma center, always here for you and all your emergency needs.

On behalf of the outstanding employees and volunteers of Parkview, we thank you for choosing Parkview and look forward to serving our great community in the years ahead.

Sincerely,

Michael T. Baxter
President/Chief Executive Officer

Charity
Giving to those in need

Parkview Medical Center is a trusted place for healthcare. The medical center provides a significant amount of care below cost and at no cost to patients in need, for which it is not compensated. Parkview provided $31.4 million in charity care for fiscal year ending June 30, 2014. In order to help those in need, Parkview also has a discount policy that applies to the poor, uninsured and under-insured. In determining the discount, the medical center considers the availability of health insurance, family income, and other coverage options. Our credit department works with individuals to find solutions that work for patients and their families. We believe people are accountable and need to be responsible for their actions and contribute to their care and well-being. We also understand the need for charity care and the place it holds in our mission.
Improving the Health of Our Community for Generations to Come

In Pueblo and the surrounding communities, there has been a large shortage of primary care physicians. To help alleviate some of this shortage, Parkview Medical Center created a residency program in our community. The program brings D.O.s into Pueblo for their final three years of training. By training internal medicine residents at Parkview, we are exposing them to the wonderful qualities Pueblo has to offer during their training, while also allowing them to build long-standing relationships with the community. During these three years, they will obtain thorough knowledge in prevention, diagnosis and treatment of patients while emphasizing principles of osteopathic manipulative medicine and practices. The residents will also grow in medical knowledge, patient care, professionalism, interpersonal skills, system-based practice, and practice-based learning. Parkview’s goal is to retain a portion of the residents graduating each year to increase the number of primary care physicians in Pueblo in order to better serve our community. Parkview’s Department of Medical Education has grown exponentially since the first class of internal medicine residents began in July of 2012, starting with just four employees. It now employs thirty residents, an entire clinic, and three new fellows.

Our residency program started the last academic year with 12 first-year residents, 9 second-year residents and 1 third-year resident. Each of these young physicians continued to hone their skills in the inpatient and outpatient setting while growing into proficient, knowledgeable professionals. Their involvement in the Parkview Adult Medicine Clinic has deeply integrated them into the Pueblo community.

Parkview Adult Medicine Clinic continues to thrive under the direction of Dr. Carol Venable, with Alicia Garcia as the lead clinical. The clinic saw 10,834 patients in the academic year 2013-2014, which was an increase from 8,733 the year before. We expect the volume to increase even more this year, due to the excellent patient care and service being provided by the entire staff.

Our teaching service on the inpatient side, which is coordinated by Dr. Madeline Brown and also staffed by Dr. Teresa Braden, Dr. Kate McCaffrey, Dr. Katherine Hoekstra, Dr. Rajeev Kandukuri, and Dr. James Stjernholm, also had a great year. A total of 1,160 patients were seen by our service where the residents were able to provide excellent healthcare, while gaining valuable experience and exposure to different pathologies.

The Department of Medical Education is very excited about the three new fellowships which started July 2014. Once a resident has completed their internal medicine residency training, they have the option of receiving additional training in a more specialized field of study called a fellowship. Three fellows were hired in the field of pulmonary medicine/critical care, two fellows for Gastroenterology, and one fellow in the area of Palliative/Hospice Medicine. The addition of the three fellowships gives Parkview another opportunity to train highly-skilled physicians in areas of great need for the community.

We are excited about the direction our Graduate Medical Education Department, as well as Parkview Medical Center as a whole, is headed and the growth we have seen in just a few short years. The growth of our residency program, the success of our inpatient and outpatient services, and the addition of the fellowships will only continue to strengthen the high level of service Parkview provides.

EMPOWERMENT through Education

STEP into Healthcare with Parkview

The School to Employment Program (STEP) is a collaboration between Parkview Medical Center and Pueblo School District 70 high schools to generate quality academic and employment training opportunities, which direct students toward future healthcare careers.

- A total of 15 students participated during the 2013-14 school year.
- As of May 2014, 173 students graduated from STEP since its inception in 2002.
- 46 designated hospital staff mentors took part in student rotations, with a direct impact on their learning.
- Parkview mentors, District 70 administration, principals & counselors from each District 70 high school make STEP successful.

Interested in STEP?

- High school juniors apply for 18-week observation rotation during Fall or Spring semester
- 27 students are selected to observe at Parkview during a semester their senior year
- Receive over 120 volunteer hours - earn one elective credit

P.I.E. Partners in Education

Partners in education is a partnership between Pueblo area businesses, non-profit agencies and school leaders who meet monthly during the school year to plan venues such as Pueblo Youth Future Fair, Character Education Celebrations and other activities, which support students in our community.

Job Shadow/Student Outreach

Parkview supports a job shadowing experience for students interested in exploring careers in healthcare. Six students shadowed in the Rehab Services department, at the Residency Clinic and with various physicians in 2013-2014. Students (18 years of age or older) must be enrolled in an accredited college/university or other medical training class may visit the medical center. Requirements can be found at www.parkviewmc.org/community-education.

Pueblo City Schools Health Academy

Parkview has been actively involved with the Health Academy program since its inception.

- A 4-year program preparing high school students for the academic rigor of a degree or technical certificate program in healthcare
- Students observe at Parkview during their sophomore and senior years
- A total of 33 sophomores and 9 seniors completed a 40-hour internship

SCHOLARSHIPS

Parkview Foundation invests in higher education. Scholarships are an investment to ensure we have optimal healthcare in Pueblo for generations to come.

Since 1983, Parkview Foundation has awarded well over a half million dollars in scholarships.

These scholarships are awarded to employees and students in the community pursuing degrees in nursing and acute medical fields.

It’s a bird! It’s a plane!
No, it’s the Parkview Mobile Nurses!

What do you call a bundle of non-stop energy that frequently gets rolling at 4 a.m.; is armed with bone density machines, blood pressure cuffs, and various other medical supplies; has formed partnerships with more than fifty regional businesses; has a passion for improving the health of Pueblo, Colorado - a city known for some of the highest rates of teen pregnancy, obesity, diabetes and poverty in the state? At Parkview Medical Center we call them Mobile Nurses, an on-the-go preventive healthcare team made up of registered nurses and health educators! This passionate bunch of super-heroes has made it their mission to identify health risks and empower individuals to make positive changes that improve quality of life.

Parkview Mobile Nurses are saving lives by providing convenient health screenings and valuable education. Just this past year, the Parkview Mobile Nurses participated in over 335 health-related events, provided 2,332 blood pressure checks, as well as provided over 4,000 flu vaccines in Pueblo and surrounding communities. The team also recently hosted an event about the heroin epidemic in southern Colorado and provided resources to over 300 community members who attended the presentation.

The nurses meet one on one with participants and discuss ways to improve their lifestyle based on screening results. They’re dedicated to improving the overall health of the Pueblo community by identifying risk factors, promoting wellness and managing long-term healthcare costs through health improvement programs.

“Parkview Medical Center continually brings year after year excellent services and information to our employees in regards to health and wellness. Our partnership with the Parkview Mobile Nurse team is incredible. They are a group of healthcare professionals that go above and beyond in working with our organization and our employees,” said Lynn Burton, Senior Administration Assistant for Black Hills Energy.

Numerous participants have shared their success stories of dropping countless pounds, going off their blood pressure and diabetes medications and making life-saving doctor follow-ups after coaching with the team. Terri Tibbs, Parkview Mobile Nurses Clinical Coordinator, cited, “There’s not a day that goes by that we don’t promote health and wellness.”

What is next for this dynamic bunch? They are on a quest to teach you the steps to “Staying Alive.” Don’t miss your opportunity to share in the success with our super-heroes. There is still time to book your health fair and flu shots with the Parkview Mobile Nurses. Visit parkviewmc.org/pmnm or call 719.584.7319 to learn more about Parkview Mobile Nurses.
STEMI Care

Parkview Medical Center has two Emergency Departments to provide care to Pueblo and surrounding counties of southern Colorado. Both Emergency Departments are staffed by Board Certified Emergency Physicians and RNs with advanced life-support training for patients of all ages as well as, EMTs, and respiratory therapists. All of this specialized training is needed when providing exceptional care for the patient with a heart attack. This sometimes presents as a STEMI, ST elevation myocardial infarction. The STEMI is caused by a clot in a blood vessel that provides blood supply to the heart. The heart is constantly pumping blood and needs a good supply of nutrients and oxygen to work. When a clot blocks an artery, the patient is having a heart attack or STEMI. The treatment for a STEMI is early reperfusion therapy. Reperfusion is the opening of the clot or obstruction with either medications or with a procedure known as PCI or percutaneous coronary intervention. PCI is done in the cardiac catheterization lab and involves the interventional cardiologist and highly-trained staff to feed a tiny catheter through an artery to treat the blockage with balloon dilation and if needed, place a stent to keep the vessel open. National standards for the treatment of a STEMI is from patient arrival in the emergency room to inflation of the balloon within 90 minutes or less.

When a STEMI patient arrives at the ED, the Emergency Department team quickly assesses the patient, obtains an EKG and portable chest xray, starts IVs, places the patient on cardiac monitors, and administers medication. Immediately upon diagnosis of a STEMI, the cardiac cath lab and interventional cardiologist are notified. Many times, these patients are being transported to the cardiac cath lab in less than 10 minutes. Our success with STEMI care has been so successful that we are recognized by the American Heart Association’s Mission Life Line as providing gold standard of care. Once the STEMI patient leaves the ED, they are transported to a state-of-the-art cardiac cath lab for further diagnosis of where the clot or occlusion is located, so the team can provide immediate care and reperfusion. These dedicated healthcare providers at Parkview Medical Center are trained to quickly identify the patient having a STEMI and take immediate action. We also work closely with the EMS providers to quickly prepare the cardiac cath lab when they notify the ED that they are transporting a STEMI patient. In 2013, over 120 patients presented to the Emergency Department with a diagnosis of STEMI. On average, our patients so far this year have a door to balloon time of 58 minutes. This exceeds the national requirement of 90 minutes. While we are thrilled with our processes that help us achieve these impressive times, the patient is the real winner. By providing reperfusion this quickly fewer cardiac cells are damaged.

Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner (SANE) Program

In the United States, sexual assault occurs approximately every 2 minutes. In Colorado, 1 in 4 women and 1 in 17 men will experience sexual assault in their lifetimes.

Parkview Medical Center received its Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner site designation in October 2001, serving southern Colorado and northern New Mexico. Nurses are trained, experienced and committed professionals offering around-the-clock specialty care for those affected by sexual assault. Rapid and appropriate response is crucial to reducing the immediate trauma that the victim experiences, as well as improving a patient’s potential for long-term recovery.

The goals of the SANE program are to reduce the physical and psychological trauma to sexual assault victims and improve evidence collection through a sensitive and timely forensic examination, as well as to provide compassionate care and support.

In Colorado, 2,903 sexual assaults were reported to law enforcement in 2013, an increase of 41.3% from 2012.(

Parkview’s SANE program provided care to 173 patients (141 female and 32 male) affected by sexual assault, with 67 of those patients ages 0-14 years old.

SANE programs cost more to operate than revenue generated, with an estimated cost for the first year of $240,000 and an ongoing yearly cost of $90,000.
